

PSALM 55

By
Steven Dexheimer

SUMMARY: A split-scene sketch where the words and feelings of Psalm 55 come to life in both historical and modern context. King David is on the run from his son Absalom while Julie is struggling under the weight of her problems. As David cries out to God in the anguish and hope that becomes the 55th Psalm, Julie reads and finds comfort in the very same words.

CAST:

David: the King of Israel who is on the run from a son that seeks to take the throne.

Julie: a girl who is going through struggles, topped off by the betrayal of her best friend.
